[This is an invitation to play usual adventures. A turn-based, role-playing game. Assume the role of yourself in an emergent situation. Describe the actions you would like to take or the thoughts that occur to you. A response will be sent back.]

You are inside McDonald's eating a burger. It is a rainy and overcast day outside. Looking out the window, you see some people hanging around your car. One of them picks up a rock and starts bashing it against the passenger side window.

[Please use bracketed syntax for any meta-discussion.]

[Sounds like fun and all, but I don't really have time to play. Sorry!]
